Medical Assistant Program – Program Specific Warning and Potential Teach-Out Plan

Life Solutions for Health would like to inform all currently enrolled and prospective students in the Medical Assistant Program that the program has been placed on Program-Specific Warning status based on our retention rate by the Accrediting Bureau of Health Education Schools (ABHES).

A Program Specific Warning is an action taken by ABHES when a program is determined to be out of compliance with one or more accreditation standards. This action requires the institution to demonstrate corrective measures within a specified timeframe in order to maintain accreditation for the program.

As a result of this action, ABHES requires the institution to develop and maintain a Teach-Out Plan for the Medical Assistant Program. The purpose of the Teach-Out Plan is to ensure that all currently enrolled students will have a clear and reasonable opportunity to complete the program of study in the event that the program is unable to continue under its current accreditation status.

What This Means for Students

- The Medical Assistant Program remains accredited at this time.
- Classes continue as scheduled, and the institution is actively working to address the concerns identified by ABHES.
- A Teach-Out Plan has been developed as a contingency measure, as required by ABHES.
- The Teach-Out Plan outlines how currently enrolled students would complete their education with minimal disruption if necessary.
- Prospective students are being informed of this status prior to enrollment in accordance with accreditation requirements.

Institutional Commitment

Life Solutions for Health is fully committed to resolving the issues that led to the Program Specific Warning and maintaining compliance with ABHES standards. Our priority is to protect students' educational progress and ensure program completion opportunities remain available.

Students with questions regarding this disclosure or the Teach-Out Plan may contact the Program Coordinator, Erika Stubbs, or School Administrator, Khailah Bell, at lifesolutionsforhealth@gmail.com for additional information.
